
CONTRIBUTORS/COLLABORATEURS

Michael Brown is professor of Humanities and Hebrew and director of the Centre for Jewish Studies at York University in Toronto. His most recent book is Creating the Jewish Future (1998), edited with Bernard Lightman.

The late Daniel J. Elazar was professor of Political Science at Bar-Ilan and Temple Universities and president of the Jerusalem Center for Public Affairs. His many books include Maintaining Consensus: The Canadian Jewish Polity in the Postwar World (1990), written with Harold Waller.

Richard Menkis is associate professor in the Department of Classical, Near Eastern and Religious Studies at the University of British Columbia. He is the founding editor of Canadian Jewish Studies/Études juives canadiennes, and is currently researching the history of Jewish identities in Canada.

Benjamin Schlesinger is professor emeritus, Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto. He is the author or editor of twenty-five books and a fellow of the Royal Society of Canada.

Stuart Schoenfeld is associate professor and chair of the Department of Sociology, Glendon College, York University. He writes on the sociology of the Jews, religion and society, and the sociology of environmental issues.